White House Gate, But

Changed Mind.

Miss Ott W. Lunsford was married to John W. Boland yesterday in the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. W. Paddon, 129 Columbia road. The wedding was a small one and the cremony was perfect of absorbing interest last Tuesday afternoon when, mounted upon a spirited horse, she accempted to guide the steed through the main driveway of the White House grounds.

Cantering up the avenue upon her thoroughbred, Mrs. Longworth turned toward the entrance gates, when the horse stubbornly refused to move a step in the desired direction.

Determined to control the frightened creature, Mrs. Longworth, with a will worthy of her distinguished father, tried to force her mount through the gate.
